MUSIC

The School provides practice rooms for individual use. Students other than pianists or organists are expected to provide their own instrument in good working order. Individual instruction in music includes 13 lessons per semester, one of which may be in the form of a repertory class. If instruction is dropped before the third lesson, the fee for lessons taken will be retained and the balance refunded. If instruction is dropped after the third lesson, no refund is made.

Students in their first year at Emma Willard may not take more than one course of individual instruction in music.
